Joint Document Content Workgroup

- In 2019, v1.1 of the CommonWell/Carequality Joint Document Content Workgroup's recommendations were released
  - https://s3.amazonaws.com/ceq-project/wp-content/uploads/2019/04/11013830/20190201_Improve_C-CDA_Joint_Content_WG_IHE_v1.1_Final.pdf

- While the recommendations in the Joint Document Content White paper are not immediately binding to the Carequality or CommonWell communities automatically, both have agreed to operationalize them

- Carequality plans to make the recommendations a component of the Document Content Testing Program test requirements

- v2.0 of the Query-Based Document Exchange Implementation Guide establishes the testing program and defines the types of entities that must submit to testing, but it is silent on the specific requirements of the testing program

Image Exchange Progress

- The early adopter organizations (Ambra Health, LifeImage, and Philips) have either completed, or made substantial progress, on RSNA Image Share Validation testing

- Virtual connectathons have begun involving the three organizations

- Feedback from this process will be incorporated into the draft IG Supplement for Image Exchange, as needed

- The resulting IG Supplement version will be proposed to the Advisory Council and Steering Committee for adoption

- Barring unexpected challenges being unearthed in the connectathon process, we continue to target the end of Q2 to complete formal review and adoption for production use

- We have had some interest from, and early conversations with, other potential adopters
